

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE

Delegates Considering Enactment of Uniform Laws.

COMMITTEE FILES REPORT

Congress of Ministers and Laymen
Discussing the Details.

RESOLUTIONS ARE INTRODUCED

Delegation From Inter-Church Conference Heard Today—Bishop Doane, and Others, Speak.

When the congress on uniform divorce laws, consisting of official delegates from forty-one states and the District of Columbia, began its afternoon session today at 2:30 o'clock, after nearly two days of deliberation, it had just reached the subject for the consideration of which it was convened. The technicalities of organization and the conduct of business and the hearing of addresses from members of a commission representing the interchurch conference on marriage and divorce have occupied all of yesterday and the greater part of today. When the committee on resolutions presented its report a little before 1 p.m. today Gov. Pennypacker, the president of the congress, announced this fact and urged that the business of the congress be carried forward with all possible dispatch. The proposed resolutions do not recommend any legislation as to causes of divorce, and state that any effort to secure a federal law would be ineffectual, but urge the enactment of legislation looking toward unity between the various states in the matter of divorce. The debate will probably last until some time tomorrow.

The report of the committee on resolutions was introduced by Walter G. Smith, chairman of the delegation from Pennsylvania. The portion which has to do with divorce legislation directly is based upon an outline suggested by the Pennsylvania delegation. It is essentially as follows:

"It is the sense of the congress that no federal divorce law is feasible, and that all efforts to secure the passage of a constitutional amendment—a necessary prerequisite—would be futile.

Legislation by Each State.

"Each state should also adopt legislation restricting the remedies afforded by its statutes of divorce to its own citizens. When the courts are given cognizance of suits where the plaintiff was domiciled in a foreign jurisdiction at the time the cause of complaint arose, it should be insisted that relief will not be given unless the cause of divorce was included among those recognized in such foreign domiciles.

"Not less than two years' residence should be required on the part of a plaintiff who has changed his or her state of domicile since the cause of divorce arose, and who is an innocent and injured party, husband or wife, seeking a divorce should not be compelled to ask for a dissolution of the bonds of matrimony, but should be allowed, at his or her option, to apply for a divorce from bed and board. Therefore, divorces a mensa should be retained where already existing, and provided for in states where no such rights exist.

"The causes for divorce would seem to be susceptible of classification into certain groups that would be approved by the common consent of all the communities represented in this congress, or at least substantially so. These causes should be restricted to offenses by one party to the marriage contract against the other of so serious a character as to defeat the objects of the marital relation, and they should never be left to the discretion of a court, but in all cases should be clearly and specifically enumerated in the statute. Uniformity in this branch of the law is much to be desired, but the evils arising from the present state of affairs are too numerous to be enumerated.

FURNAL OF JAS. R. RODIER.

Services at Residence—Interment at Glenwood Cemetery.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock over the remains of Mr. James R. Rodier, husband of the late Susan C. Rodier, who died at his home, 923 P street northwest, last Sunday afternoon. The services were conducted at his late residence by Father Ambrose A. Beavan of the Immaculate Conception Church. Interment, which was private, was made in Glenwood cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. John LaFerty of Baltimore, Hamilton Adams, Theodore Crow and Frank Crow.

Mr. Rodier died within two months of the death of his aged wife. He was eighty-six years of age, and is said to have died of a broken heart. The couple had been married sixty-five years, and November 10 last they celebrated their anniversary. Two daughters and three sons survive him. They are Mrs. T. P. Kane, Mrs. L. W. Burke, Mrs. Hamilton Adams, and Messrs. June and Andrew Rodier.

Republicans Organize.

A number of republicans of the District of Columbia effected a permanent organization at a meeting held in the Hotel Hamilton last evening. Delegates and alternates from the old legislative districts were present. The following officers were elected: R. R. Horner, president; Dr. C. P. Kirby, first vice president; Ralph Wormley, second vice president; H. C. Chase, secretary; M. Wilson, corresponding secretary; Dr. W. S. Richardson, treasurer; and Peyton R. Harvey, sergeant-at-arms. A platform was adopted.

Meat—$50 a Pound.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.

"The flesh of the green turtle often brings $50 a pound," said an oyster dealer. "This rich meat comes to us from the coral reefs of the West Indies. The turtles are caught in nets among the rocks. They are carefully brought north. They are deck passengers at night, and are unloaded at the ship's progress they are penned in warm rooms below—regular state-rooms. It is different treatment that they get, though, at the market. The turtle is a stringing turtles north, he hauls them fast to the deck by their flippers. Strange creatures that they are, they appear to suffer little under such cruel treatment. The calipso and calipash are, respectively, the flesh from the breast and the back of the green turtle, and both, which have heard epicures say, are unequaled in the waters under the earth. This meat is superlatively rich, delicate and tender. Live green turtle fetches, wholesale, from a dime to a quarter a pound. What makes the meat so expensive in the end is that, out of a 140-pound fish, you get only a few pounds of calipso and a pound of calipash. Several times, when there has been a tight turtle market, the chefs of millionaires and of certain extravagant hotels have been known to pay a dollar a pound for live turtle. At that rate your calipso and calipash would come to quite $50 a pound, wouldn't it?"

"A decree should not be granted unless the case is shown by affirmative proof aside from any admissions on the part of the respondent.

"An final decree dissolving the marriage tie so completely as to permit the remarriage of either party should not be entered until the lapse of a reasonable time after a decree nisi after hearing or trial upon the merits of the cause. The Wisconsin, Illinois and California rule of one year is recommended.

"In no case should the children born during coverture be bastardized excepting where they are the offspring of bigamous

Interchurch Conference Delegates.

As soon as the congress was called to order this morning at 10 o'clock Governor Pennypacker presented the members of a commission representing the interchurch conference on divorce, who are Bishop W. C. Doane of the Episcopal Church of Albany, N. Y.; Rev. Randolph H. McKim, rector of the Church of the Epiphany of this city; Francis Lynde Stearns of New York, Rev. Dr. C. A. Dickey of the Presbyterian denomination of Philadelphia, and Rev. Dr. J. C. Parsons of New York city. Bishop A. W. Wilson of the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church, of Baltimore, Md.; Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, Presbyterian minister of Philadelphia; Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, Reformed Church, of Albany, N. Y.; Rev. Dr. S. W. Dike, Congregationalist, of Auburn, Mass.; and Rev. Dr. W. W. Fitzpatrick, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church South, of this city.

Bishop Doane, chairman of the interchurch conference and chairman of the commission, addressed the congress first. He said he recognized that there were many different opinions in regard to the divorce question among the churches and the lawyers of the country, but that they are all on converging lines. All the churches in the conference except one, he said, united in the opinion that the only ground for the dissolution of the marriage bond should be post-nuptial infidelity.

"You are concerned with making better laws," he continued, "even with making better public opinion, which is absolutely necessary to the enforcement of these proposed laws."

The bishop stated that personally he did not believe in divorce on any ground, although a separation under peculiar circumstances came within his views.

Other Addresses.

Mr. Parsons related the story of a recent trial for a divorce in New York city, which was not granted. Later this same case was transferred to a western state and granted. He also said he had received an argument from a lawyer in a western state, which was in the form of an advertisement of himself as an attorney in such cases. This sort of practice, he said, ought to be stopped.

Mr. Parsons concluded his address with a plea that conservative states like New York be not asked to lower the standard of divorce laws, but rather that the states with lax laws be lifted up to this standard.

The interchurch conference, according to Dr. Roberts, the next speaker, represented in actual communicants and adherents the great majority of the people of the land. He declared that there is a determination on the part of the Protestant churches of the land to take hold of this matter.

According to Bishop Wilson, who followed, the south today does not have much reason to consider the divorce evil locally, as it has not appeared there to any great extent.

"But we are open to example," said Bishop Wilson, "and as we increase in wealth and more people come to us from the north we may see it break out amongst us."

The "higher moral character" of the southern people was given by Bishop Wilson as the reason for the non-existence of the divorce evil in southern states.

Mr. Stetson of the commission, presented to the congress the act approved by the interchurch conference, which was considered by the congress in the form of a resolution for the promotion of Uniformity of Legislation in the United States, and has been approved by the American Bar Association. It is based upon the principle of "publicity, decency and comity," as Mr. Stetson expressed it.

Mr. Stetson held that each state should respect the policy of all other states, and not make it so easy for outsiders to secure divorces within their borders.

Dr. Dickey was asked by Governor Pennypacker to give his views. He said it was an honor to accept the invitation from the governor, "who," he said, "is a good man to be to, as we have learned in Pennsylvania during the last few weeks." He also made a plea for comity between the states. He declared that the church has much to do for the sake of unity, and thought the states ought to do the same.

The congress voted that the members of the commission be asked to remain and take part occasionally in the discussions.

Sole Delegate from Washington State.

Miss Fanny Leake Cummings, sole delegate from Washington state, took the floor and inquired of Dr. Roberts upon what scriptural ground the Presbyterian Church based its rule in regard to remarriage after divorce.

Amid much laughter Dr. Roberts replied that he could quote the part of the Bible, but would be glad to send the arguments of the church to the lady by mail after he got home.

The committee on credentials reported. It recommended that Francis Tracey Tobin, who claimed to have credentials from the governor of New Mexico, be admitted to the congress by the given name of Francis Tracey Tobin. The recommendation was warmly debated and finally recommended.

The congress then received the report of the committee on procedure, which was followed by the report from the committee on resolutions. The latter was made the first business of the afternoon session, and the congress adjourned until 2:30 p.m.

When the congress on uniform divorce laws, consisting of official delegates from forty-one states and the District of Columbia, began its afternoon session today at 2:30 o'clock, after nearly two days of deliberation, it had just reached the subject for the consideration of which it was convened.

PLANTS OF DEATH VALLEY.

Little Known, but Beautiful Flowers Found in Great Stretches of Desert.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

Not half the plants of Death Valley are known to scientists; most of those that are known are little more than names, and will never be more until the prying arm of the railroad shall have laid bare some of the secrets of this Vale of Hinnom.

Most beautiful and most plenty, of course, of all these plants that bloom in the desert are the cacti, and the rapidly growing cactus much larger than this—the barrel cactus—has a very small and insignificant bloom, while the tiniest of all, a low, creeping, round stemmed, jointed growth, has an immense pink flower, beautiful as any orchid and rivaling the fairest rose of Persia in its odor.

Unfortunately the names of these rare species are not well known, and the commoner varieties, which are also found on the coast slope, bear no such gorgeous array of blossoms. Old friends greet the traveler on the rim of Death Valley, too. There is the cholla (pronounced choyah), which, while large and many branched, produces blue flowers.

"Sun-dried" said the dealer, "is the finest such-tried turtle meat."
